Winter Wave Holds Entire West In Grip

Crop And Stock Loss Severe; Snow At San Diego

Placerville enjoyed a slight moderation in the current cold wave when the mercury registered a minimum of 18 degrees during Thursday night. This was 10 degrees warmer than either Tuesday or Wednesday night when the reading was eight degrees, lowest for several years.

By UNITED PRESS

Freezing and sub-zero temperatures continued to hold the entire western area in an icy grip today, endangering the lives of 18 snow-bound sheep herders in Nevada, threatening millions of dollars loss in the California citrus belt and the destruction of thousands of cattle on ranges in the five inter-mountain states.

San Diego, California had its first snowstorm in 55 years and record-shattering weather was reported from the Mexican to the Canadian borders.

Rescue crews, battling heavy snow drifts in 36 below weather out of Winnemucca, Nevada, were reported unable to progress in their efforts to reach 18 sheep herders, marooned on a barren plateau ranch 55 miles from there. The men were reported to have little or no food.

Agriculturalists in Southern California were facing the most serious losses. Temperatures dropped to six degrees above zero on the northern edge of the citrus belt and it was feared the entire $100,000,000 orange, lemon and grapefruit crop would be lost if low temperatures continue two days more.

El Centro yesterday recorded the lowest temperature since 1913 and it was predicted the mercury would drop to 20 degrees today.

In the northern part of the state heavy snowfalls kept highway crews busy. A record of six feet of snow was reported at Badger Pass.

Salt Lake City had its coldest day in 45 years when thermometers dropped to 11 degrees below zero, while the coldest spot in the nation yesterday was believed to have been at Wells, a small town in eastern Nevada, where 56 below was recorded. Observers said it was even colder but they had no thermometers which would read any lower.

Other temperatures recorded were Aberdeen, Ida., 41; Missoula, Montana, 9; Pocatello, Ida., 21 and Idaho Falls, 15.

"PLANE GOT AWAY FROM ME", SAYS PILOT OF TRANSPORT

LOS ANGELES (UP)—The long-awaited testimony of Pilot W. W. Lewis on the cause of a Western Air Express transport crash which cost five lives, today was being transmitted to the Department of Commerce at Washington. Lewis, still suffering seriously from his injuries, was interviewed yesterday by Major R. W. Schroeder at Good Samaritan hospital.

The pilot attributed his misfortune on the sudden change from clear weather to turbulent air currents as he neared his home port at Burbank.

Lewis also cited difficulty in following his instruments and ice accumulation on motors and altimeters as throwing him off course.

"The plane simply got away from me," he declared. "I had to fight the plane all the way in after we got into the rough air. The motors began to weaken and ice started to form on the wings."

During his battle with the elements over Newhall Pass, 30 miles from here, Lewis had dropped from 7,000 feet in altitude to 3,500 feet when he crashed.

"The altimeter and the other instruments were not giving accurate readings. The rate of climb indicater varied between zero and 1,000 and the air speed indicator was bouncing from 80 to 150 miles an hour."

Lewis had not been informed of five deaths as a result of the crash because physicians feared he might suffer a relapse.

Coroner Frank Nance, who was present at the hearing and had a stenographic copy made of Lewis' testimony, said he would convene a coroner's jury Monday to hold an inquest into the deaths of the five persons.

Floods In Eleven States Make 125,000 Homeless; Property Loss Millions

Eleven Known Dead; Government Officials Mass Emergency Workers To Fight Threat Of Disease

By UNITED PRESS

Devastating floods swept into 11 states today, forcing upwards of 125,000 persons from their homes, isolating communities and bringing millions of dollars in damage.

Eleven were known dead.

From the Ohio River at Pittsburgh—which spilled over into the famous "Golden Triangle" in the business district—flood was reported over thousands of acres stretching to Cairo where the Ohio runs into the Mississippi. Indiana and Illinois Rivers flowed over. Farmers along the Mississippi to the lower delta left their homes fearing the river would surge out and spread damage similar to that of 1926.

Portsmouth, Ohio's famous wall—which has prevented floods from reaching that city—became ineffectual. Waters rose above it despite opening of valves. Eight to 10 feet of muddy water stood in the city's streets. Cincinnati feared the worst flood in history as the water rose stodily to approach the all-time high mark.

Louisville was threatened with the worst flood in its history. Electric power may fail this afternoon. Wheeling, W. Va., reported thousands were leaving Wheeling Island as the water rose steadily.

Evansville, Indiana, was the scene of tremendous emergency measures with the wall still holding. The tri state area around Memphis was a scene of desolation as waters spread with thousands forced from their homes.

Pneumonia and influenza were spreading although government officials—massing emergency forces of workers, boats and airplanes—said the real danger came when the waters receded. Food supplies were low in some communities.

Rains and snows continued today, swelling the waters going into the main rivers and the crest at most points has not been reached.

Following are summarized reports from various communities:

PORTSMOUTH, O. — Floods six inches over million dollar sea wall and rising two inches per hour; Ohio and Scioto waters flood city as engineers open sewer valves for most serious inundation in 24 years; 13,000 homeless.

Putting All The Eggs In One Basket

Here And There

Editorial comment on President Roosevelt's inaugural address:

New York Times—Some may complain that his inaugural address was disappointingly vague. It laid down no new policies. It called for no added legislation. It offered to the country no panaceas. For such omissions it was all the better. The time was propitious for the ideals and aspirations which he avowed. There was no occasion for him to sound such a bugle-note as he struck four years ago.

* * * * *

New York Herald-Tribune—The best aspect of the speech, aside from its admirable mastery of phrase, was again, as in the case of the first message (to Congress), its moderation of tone. It will help to confirm the hope that Mr. Roosevelt has decided to dedicate his second term to co-operation rather than to threat, forsaking the tactics of revolution for the steady march of progress.

* * * * *

New York Daily News—President Roosevelt says he intends to go on as he has been going; to continue to take some wealth by taxation from those who have too much and transfer it to those who have too little. Good.

* * * * *

Kansas City Star—The President's second inaugural yesterday was pitched upon a lofty plane. In his address at the beginning of another term of four years, Mr. Roosevelt appealed to no class or group as opposed to another. There was evidence of a deepened sense of responsibility growing out of the experience of the last four years.

* * * * *

Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer—"Surely this must be a nation and a South blinded by superficial prosperity which does not see, as the President sees, that though the crisis has passed, the problem remains. It was a magnificent leadership which Roosevelt provided in 1933 to a nation united by despair. But it is a greater leadership which he proposes now.

GAS CHAMBER EXECUTIONS ARE PROPOSED

SACRAMENTO (UP)—Former Warden James B. Holohan of San Quentin, who has supervised scores of legal hangings, believes California should adopt the lethal gas chamber for men and women under death sentence.

SURVEY SHOWS YOUTHS TREND TOWARD PALS

The gang spirit in most boys is evidently satisfied by what the Boy Scouts of America has to offer them in that line if charts reveal anything.

The Scout orgainzation at Santa Barbara, has just completed a large map of the city on which is spotted by means of colored pins the homes of the 500 Scouts of the city. Besides showing that the orgainzation has taken root in rich and poor sections alike, the survey reveals that one of the most important elements of Scouting growth is the tendency of boys to go with their "pals."

"There is an astonishing number of pairs of Scouts living on the same block," says Scout Executive Calvin McCray of Santa Barbara. Social service workers of the city are on record with the statement that since the Scout organization became active, there has been a decrease in juvenile delinquency of near 50 per cent.

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE

(United Press Staff Writer)

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP)—As I am in this little city on the gulf with orders to throw all my reportorial skill into the recording of the baseball players' national golf championship, I suppose I really shouldn't sit down and do a column on the subject of tennis.

But I am, even thuogh it be treason, for in my talk with big Bill Tilden and Vinnie Richards a few days ago they expressed several opinions on the subject of an open tennis championship which I want to put on paper.

William and Vincent are, to reach right up and snatch a phrase from the air, at opposite ends of the poles on the subject. Richards believes that an open championship, with pros and amateurs meeting for the world's title, is but two years away at the most. Tilden thinks Richards a bit balmy on the matter, and will bet you money (or its equivalent) that such a tournament never will be held.

Speaking for the negative side, Tilden advanced these reasons:

All amateur tournaments, save those which are used as a means of publicity for some seaside or mountain resort, are conducted for financial gain. Wimbledon, Forest Hills, Longwood, Germantown, Seabright, and all the state and sectional ones. The men who operate them appreciate to the fullest the beautiful set-up of amateur tennis—a set-up where the workmen work for nothing, or something mighty close to it. And they are not going to split the intake, all of which goes to their clubs now, with the professionals.

Tilden named Wimbledon as the finest example of the amateur tennis set-up. Year after year Wimbledon reaps a golden harvest from the efforts of the volunteer talent, and the very word "professional" is an anathema. Big Bill pointed out that Wimbledon officials, once he turned pro, refused to allow him to even practtice on their most distant clay court. And treated Henri Cochet the same way, despite the fact that between them, Bill and Henri drew fully half a million dollars through the gates as amateurs.

Richards agreed with Tilden concerning Wimbledon, but believed the club would make a rapid descent from its high horse this year when England loses the Davis Cup.

"We would have had an open tournament before this," Richard argued, "if Britain, the cup-holding nation, had not held out against it. With the trophy in their possession, the English knew that amateur tennis would draw well. But now that it's gone, and there is little hope of immediate recovery, they will be anxious to join a movement which will guarantee packed stands. You wait and see."

To this argument Tilden had a very pregnant answer.

"I don't think England will make an about face," Bill said, "but even if it does, what about the nation which takes the cup away from the dear little island? Say Germany wins it, which I think it will. Do you think the German association, with the precious trophy in its grasp for the first time, is going to be willing to listen to the call of the professionals? No, they won't. And if America wins it—well, Vinnie, you know the dear old American amateur patriarchs as well as I do. Well maybe not quite so well, but almost."

Richards believes professional tennis, to become a permanent and healthy thing, must have a czar, such as baseball's Landis, who can heal the wound between the teaching pros and the exhibition playing pros. A czar—and an open championship—he believes, would give tennis the vitality it so badly needs.

SOME AUTOMOBILE EXPENSES DEDUCTIBLE IN TAX RETURN

Under the federal income tax law motor car owners are allowed certain deductions for sums paid out or for losses sustained in connection with the ownership and operation of automobiles, according to the legal department of the California State Automobile Association. Substantially the same deductions are permitted under the California personal income tax law. Federal tax returns must be filed by March 15 and state returns by April 15.

A review by the Automobile Association of deductible and non-deductible items by car owners in making out their returns gives the following:

Allowable deductions do not include the state gasoline tax in California, the federal gasoline tax, or the federal taxes on lubricating oil, tires, tubes, accessories, new cars and trucks. A Department of Internal Revenue ruling holds that these taxes are imposed by law upon the manufacturer or distributor and are not to be considered as taxes paid by the consumer.

Deductions which automobile owners are allowed to make in computing their taxable income include the following:

All sums paid during the calendar year as registration fees, personal property taxes, and municipal taxes.

Interest on money borrowed for the purchase of an automobile.

The amount of financing charges on automobiles purchased which covers the interest on the loan, when specifically set forth in the contract, but not the amount covering the premium on insurance to protect the finance company's interest.

All operating and maintenance expense, including depreciation, on automobiles used wholly for business, or a pro rate share of such expenses representing business use where a passenger car is used chiefly (more than 50 per cent) for business. Depreciation usually is figured at 25 per cent per annum.

Automobile insurance on automobiles used for business purposes.

Uncompensated losses sustained by reason of damage to automobiles used for business or pleasure.

Damage paid for injuries to persons or for destruction of property, provided the automobile at the time of the accident was being used for business.

Loss sustained when a car used for business is sold outright at a price less than its depreciated value. (Loss sustained where an automobile used for business is traded in for a new car can not be deducted, but such loss can be considered as part of the cost when computing depreciation for the ensuing year).

No deduction can be made for the amount paid for an automobile used for either business or pleasure, this being a capital expenditure and subject to claim for depreciation where the automobile is used for business.

Where an employee receives an allowance or mileage from the employer for automobile operation, unless such allowance is declared as part of income no claim can be made by the employee for deduction on account of operating expenses.

BLUEBERRY BLUE, OTHER HUES INTRODUCED IN MALE ATTIRE

BOSTON (UP)—It's going to be a colorful spring—in men's clothing.

Many intriguing and fascinating shades and names, along with new patterns and designs, have been introduced for spring and summer wear, the New England Retail Clothiers' and Furnishers' Association says.

Such colors as "burma," "dawn" gray, "blueberry" blue, and dubonnet will make their appearance in summer suits and slacks. "Guardsman's blue," putty, steel, rust, cornflower blue, "Gloucester" green, eggshell, "sky cloud," "meadow tones," "cavalry arms" and bottle green will be new colors for shirts.

Neckties will be available in all kinds of dazzling colors.

To be sartorially elegant the man of 1937 should wear a summer suit of "dawn gray" or "burma" coat, with black tuxedo trousers. A maroon bow tie with cuff links to match is worn with a soft front, pleated white shirt. A red carnation must be worn in the buttonhole of the coat.

Bright blue "blueberry" and du-bonnet colors are new in summer slacks, now called "sandbags."

In a sports shirt he can wear a "jungle" shirt or a "knockout" shirt. There is "the Bolero," having a Russian effect, and is worn with slacks. It comes in shades of deep levender, bottle green and navy blue and is made of broadcloth, silk and satin.

Underwear and nightclothes will be made from featherweights material and will bear the names of "clouds with a silver lining" and "seaweed."
